Events and Parties

The Spa was first formally opened in 1649 by two brothers, Cosmas and Damianos. Their generosity in offering treatment often without thought of reward gave rise to the name Anargyri - without silver. They were known and loved locally for their selfless acts and affectionately became known as saints . At that time it was a monastery with 22 cellars for the Monks. However with the passing of time it ceased to be a monastery and became a small inn where people could use the healing waters. For many years people from all over Cyprus have enjoyed the beneficial waters of Ayii Anargyri . Back in 1983 Zenon Chrysanthou, a local man, acquired the land. Time had taken its toll and the property was suffering from the effects. He visualised what it might be and what it should be. He loved nature and the land but unfortunately he never lived to see his vision. Some years after the passing away of Mr Chrysanthou the spa hotel was extended, renovated and refurbished in natural stone and timber in traditional Cypriot architectural style. It is set amid fragrant citrus groves and other mature trees, many of which were planted by Mr Chrysanthou .
